

Developmental Psychology's definition

The three fundamental questions of developmental psychology

What does it mean to "develop"?

Developmental Domains

- Physical
- Cognitive
- Moral
- Social

Social enrichment and early childhood development

Explain Schema

- cognition
- assimilation
- accommodation

Piaget's Cognitive Developmental Stages

Piaget's Moral Developmental Stages

Erikson's Psychological Stages

Erikson's Stages of Identity Development

Secure vs. Insecure Attachment

Divorce and Child Development

Social Learning Theory

Gender Schema Theory

Adolescence

- landmarks of
- physical changes
- cognitive changes
- social changes
- boys vs. girls
- sex characteristics
- behavioral trends

Kohlberg's Stages of Moral Development

Aging

- physical
- cognitive
- social

Intelligence and Aging

- crystallized
- fluid

The social clock

Happiness over time

Stereotyping

- cognitive
- psychodynamic
- sociocultural

Define:

Gender

Zygote

Embryo

Fetus

Teratogen

Maturation

Infantile Amnesia

Rooting reflex

Object Permanence

Conservation

Egocentric

Autism

Stranger anxiety

Attachment

Critical Period

Mere Exposure Effect

Imprinting

Temperament

Basic Trust

Identity

Social Identity

Menopause

Dementia

Alzheimer's Disease

Cross-sectional study

Longitudinal study

Intimacy

Age-ism